How to use this plan: Five eating windows: breakfast after training, a morning snack, lunch, dinner as your biggest meal, then a dessert. Pick 1 option per slot, any combination keeps the day under 1,700, that number is your ceiling, never a target to chase. Everything packs for the office except dinner. All brands are Woolworths.

How to weigh: Weigh everything raw, before it hits the pan. Meat raw, pasta and oats dry, potatoes and vegetables raw, frozen food straight from the bag. Ready-to-eat items get weighed as they come, microwave rice straight from the pouch, tins drained first. Anything in a labelled single serve (pots, pouches, bars) needs no scales at all. Fresh fruit, salad and vegetables never need the scales, pieces and handfuls do the job. Spoon measures are level, not heaped. Batch cooking? Weigh the full amount raw, cook it, then weigh the cooked total and split it evenly into your portions.

COACH NOTES

- 1,700 is the ceiling, not a target. Any combination of cards lands under it, there is no bad pick.
- The daily scale number will bounce around, I only read the weekly average. Your job is just to log every morning.
- Protein sits high on purpose. It holds muscle through the recomp and it is what keeps you full between meals.
- Creatine: every day, rest days included. On non training days drop it in water or your morning drink. Your pre workout before the session stays as is, counted at zero.
- Your weekly treat meal or takeaway with Jack stays in. It replaces that nights dinner card, not stacks on top of it, order sensibly and the week absorbs it.
- Coffee: black or a splash of milk is free. Anything milkier gets counted, tell me how you take yours and I will set the rule properly.
- Vegetables are never weighed. Every cooked meal names its three, pile them as high as you like.
- Dinners cook once for you and Jack, your bowl weighed to your card, his to his.
